JLS Automation adds VP of Sales & Marketing

JLS Automation of York, PA announces the appointment of Mark V. Ewing as Vice-President of Sales & Marketing. Mark will officially join the company in this capacity January 1, 2011. Mark brings to JLS many years of experience in the Packaging Industry and a history of developing growth oriented Sales and Marketing programs.

According to company President, Craig Souser, "having Mark as part of our Senior Management team is a big boost to JLS as we continue to grow our business and develop our management team. Sparky, as many in the packaging industry know him, adds tremendous experience and momentum to our focus on robotic automation in the primary packaging segment. We look forward to Mark playing a role in the ongoing recruitment and development of our field sales resources."

JLS offers robotic-based automation solutions for a variety of packaging markets, but is focused on primary product handling of food items along with a growing number of secondary packaging applications. JLS is based in York, PA with a deep technical staff of more than a dozen engineers and designers along with a team of mechanical and electrical assemblers. Despite the global recession, JLS has enjoyed significant growth in the last few years by offering high value systems to its growing list of customers who are interested in higher productivity and cost reduction.
